

Seaview Veterinary Clinic

Daniel Dolan

Type of clinic

- Seaview veterinary clinic is a mixed practice in the northwest of Ireland, in south Donegal.
- It is a first opinion clinic.
- It has 6 veterinarian surgeons and 7 veterinary nurses.

Why I picked this clinic?

- It is a mixed practice which is the area I want to work in.
- It is located on the Wild Atlantic Way, which stretches along the Irish coast.

Facilities

- The clinic has a range of modern diagnostic facilities;
  - X-ray
  - Portable scanner
  - In-house blood and urinalysis machines
  - Microscopes and centrifuge
  - Dental machine
  - EKG and anaesthetic machine

Normal day

- TB (Tuberculosis) testing of local cattle herds.
- Elective surgeries ; spaying, castration, Dental procedures.
- Routine appointments ; vaccinations, health checks, dosing of large animals.
- The clinic is also prepared for emergencies for both large animals and small animals.
  - RTAs, cesarean sections etc.
- There is also a local orthopedic vet that routinely joins the clinic to perform extensive bone surgery including TPLOs and plating bones.

Student in practice

- As a student in this practice I felt very comfortable.
- Each vet and nurse had no problem answering any questions and helping me with any task.
- As I spent more time in the clinic I was allowed to do more and more things due to the relationship I had built with the staff.
- I also got to travel with the vets to some large animal calls which I found to be very helpful as it acted as a One-on-One learning opportunity.

Thank you
